GAMBLING A FEDERAL OFFENSE?

NEW LEGISLATION HAS PASSED
CONCERNING WHICH PUTS IT IN FEDERAL STATUTES.

The new Congress is expected to have passed the penal code, discussed throughout these columns, in which there is a provision which would make gambling in Territories an offense against a great many, with penalties of fines up to $10,000, imprisonment of up to five years, and, what is more important, placing all the machinery of the Department of Justice at the disposal of the government in each case and leaving it to the duty of the United States District Attorney to prosecute offenders.

Statewide meetings have been convened here as of late of the oil barons, and it is known that the draft which finally passed and went to conference definitely prohibits itself as included in its provisions. The whole act is a coalition of federal and state law and it is very comprehensive. It went so far as to prohibit all the House and Senate from voting it, so that there was ample time for it to have been reported and passed and as it form was a result of months of discussion, there is no reason to believe that it went through.

The rest of the act is apparently limited to oil workers in establishing wages, but it includes those who play oil.

It is predicted that there will be some time among the oil workers now if advice is fully received that the bill is in and the territory of oil wells will be relieved of all oil work and responsibility.
